

DEAD HORSES
ONE ASSET OF CITY RAILWAY

Defunct Propelling Force Carried on Books, Limburg Brings Out

Attorney-General Jackson's suit to dissolve the New York City Railway Company as an insolvent institution was resumed to-day, with Otto Root, general manager of the company, before and under the receivership of the court.

Before the inquiry into it is expected that all of the officers and directors of the company as a holding corporation will be asked to give information on the "report of 1906," which Deputy Attorney-General Limburg maintains showed a deficiency in excess of the company's capitalization. District Attorney Jerome and August Belmont are under subpoena. Thomas P. Ryan has been excused for the present owing to illness.

"The report signed by you, Mr. Root, shows the sum of $1,500,000 spent under the head of construction in 1906, does it not?" asked Mr. Limburg.

"As indicated, I believe it does," was the reply.

Auditor Must Explain.

"Yes," continued Mr. Limburg, "it appears the company acquired half a million dollars' worth of property in line extensions, etc."

"The general auditor will have to explain that,"

"I suppose the items for the year ending June 30, 1907, under expense of construction, and amounting to $49,000, will also have to be explained by the auditor?"

"Yes, sir, it will."

Persistent questioning of Mr. Root as to the outlay of $600,000 for construction material failed to elicit more than admission of a general approval which he exercised as general manager.

Mr. Root failed to satisfactorily explain the "bookkeeping assets" of the company, which are alleged legal entities by Attorney-General Jackson. Mr. Root's memory was defective as to expenditures, character of entries in the company's balance sheets—whether liabilities or assets—and his knowledge as to franchises held by the company.

Mr. Root said he considered entries marked "Expense" for renewals of special work, and "Expense" for interest on damages, and recorded as assets as "property" proper for bookkeeping purposes.

In reply to Mr. Limburg's question intimating that such entries were to ward off insolvent proceedings, Mr. Root stated emphatically that he was "not here to pass on the company's insolvency."

Couldn't Fix Profit Earnings.

"You told Mr. Cravath that your bills were always promptly paid and you could go as far as you liked. Now, do you know that the New York City Railway Company operated during any quarter at anything other than a loss since 1902?"

"Oh, yes, of course."

"Well, what quarter?"

"I don't remember."

"There is an item here for $6,351 for renewals of horses, what is that?"

"New horses, I suppose."

"What became of the old horses?"

"Was their loss ever credited to such account?"

"I couldn't say."

"Then you have been carrying dead horses along as an asset for years?"

Mr. Root couldn't say exactly, but said his customary reply of "presumption."

Charles E. Warren, treasurer of the New York City Railway Company, followed Mr. Root on the stand.

Witness "Didn't Know."

Mr. Limburg and Mr. Cravath sparred and skirmished in the fight over the documentary evidence in the case. There was half a cord of checks on the counsel table. They were checks in payment for materials and supplies for the year ending June 30, 1906.

"What?" asked Mr. Cravath. "Why, there are 10,000 to 15,000 checks. It would be practically impossible to sort them out. It would take weeks. You can get all that information from the books."

"I do not propose to take four false ledger accounts," retorted Mr. Limburg.

"I ask that that remark be stricken from the record," protested Mr. Cravath, and insisted that it be stricken.

Then Mr. Limburg demanded checks for $200,000 paid by the New York City Railway Company to the Metropolitan and Mr. Cravath declared that he was willing to produce them. He said he would be served in order to find the checks.

Some of these checks, as far as last year's record, were the property of Mr. Limburg.

Mr. Warren "didn't know."

Mr. Cravath suggested that he would be Mr. Limburg, with the company's expert accountant, search the books and was granted when the Deputy Attorney-General accepted the proposition.

The Aim of This Verse Is to Protect Your Purse

"Good morning," said the gentleman; "How do you like my horse?"

"It's a beauty," said the lady.

"Like others you have, of course."

"It cost me just one-half of what it's worth," the man then said; "if that is all," the lady replied, "I'm sure World A.S. you've read."

WORLD A.S. ARE FAMOUS FOR SHOWING WHERE ALL KINDS OF HORSES AND CARRIAGES MAY BE PURCHASED FOR MUCH LESS THAN REGULAR PRICES.

STOCKS DROP AS TRADING QUICKENS

National Lead, Smelting, Copper, Reading and Pacific Prominent.

Prices were lifted gradually in the stock market early to-day until the list showed gains averaging a half point. National Lead was the strongest feature, with an advance of 1 1/4. Smelting, Amalgamated Copper, Reading and the Pacific were again the leaders. Trading was dull.

Stocks held firm until the final run when a sharp reaction wiped out the gains and sent the list a point below the opening. Selling on the decline was quite brisk. While Smelting, Copper, Reading and Pacific suffered with the rest, they held their prominence in the trading.

The total sales of stocks were 32,000 shares and of bonds $2,072,000.

The Closing Prices.

Today's highest, lowest and last prices of stocks and of net changes as compared with yesterday's final figures are as follows:
